Apartment Hunting Tools

Resources to Find Apartments

- Craigslist - Great for subleases or to move into an existing lease.
- Roomi - You can find great apartments if you already have a roommate, but there are also listings for folks looking for roommates to join a lease. They also host events where you can meet potential roommates in addition to viewing apartments.
- Streeteasy - Great to find apartments if you are looking solo or have roommates.
- Zillow - Great to find apartments if you are looking solo or have roommates.
- Compass - Great to find apartments if you are looking solo or have roommates.
- Padmapper - Great to find apartments if you are looking solo or have roommates.

Things You'll Need Before You Go Apartment Hunting

- Letter of Employment or Proof of Income Letter that states the length of work and annual salary. Ask for this on your first day/orientation session at your job.
- Your two most recent pay stubs. If you don't have pay stubs yet, explain that to your leasing office and the Letter of Employment should suffice.
- Latest bank statements.
- Copy of your photo ID or passport.
- First two pages of your latest tax return. You may not need it, but it's good to have on hand.

- Reference letters from previous landlords are great if you have them, but they're not mandatory.
- Bring a blank check or your checkbook. You'll be surprised at how quickly apartments come off the market, so if you find something you fall in love with, you'll be ready to make it yours.

Common Things To Know When Looking For An Apartment

- Start your search by narrowing down what part of NYC you want to be in. The next section shows a breakdown of all the various neighborhoods in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Queens.
- Schedule viewings quickly. Apartments are taken off the market quickly, so reach out as soon as you find a place you're interested in. It would also be wise to spend a day viewing multiple apartments so that you can compare and contrast. Try to bundle viewings by neighborhood.
- Keep an eye out for places with "No broker fees." Brokers are individuals who will help you look for an apartment based on the criteria you provide them with, but for a steep cost. Usually 8.5%-17% of your annual rent. You can avoid this fee by joining an existing lease or looking at properties where a leasing company will pay the broker fee on your behalf.
- You (and your roommates, if applicable) will likely need to make 40x the rent among you (or your combined salaries). This is to ensure that you have the proper cash flow to pay rent.
- In the case that you do not make 40x the rent, have no credit history/have poor credit, or lack employment or rental history, you will need a guarantor. A guarantor is an individual who guarantees payment on the lease if you cannot pay. The most common guarantors are family members, but they will need to make at least 80x the monthly rent. This is assessed through pay stubs and other financial documents.
- Guarantors can also be secured by paying a fee to private equity and insurance firms. One of the biggest in New York is a company called Insurent. For about 80 percent of one month's rent, Insurent will act as your guarantor as long as you have good credit history and earn about 28 times the monthly rent.
- In addition to signing the physical lease, you will need to provide a security deposit, first month's rent, and sometimes the last month's rent to fully secure your apartment.

Helpful Apps

Entertainment & Activity Apps

- Yelp - If you're looking to try new food and even venture into a new neighborhood, Yelp will give you reliable suggestions.
- Pulsd - Trying to have fun on a budget is hard, but Pulsd makes it a bit easier. The app always has great deals on great places to eat and things to do around the city.
- Groupon - An app that is filled with discounts.
- TodayTix - Broadway fanatic on a budget? No problem. TodayTix provides great seats at reasonable prices. You can purchase tickets for shows up to a week in advance.
- Hopper - Looking to get out of town? Hopper does an analysis of various airlines and provides you with best deals. You can even track them so if you prices drop, you will be the first to know!
- Cool Cousin - Always wish you could live the lives of cool "influencers" in your city? Well Cool Cousin is the app for you. Cool Cousins in each city will provide you with places to hit up when you're looking to try something new.

Food

- Seamless - Feeling lazy but hungry? Seamless has your back with literally hundreds of restaurants that deliver to your doorstep.
- Eat 24 - Same as Seamless, but Yelp's version.
- Ritual - Get points for ordering lunch and skip the line!
- Uber Eats - Hundreds of NYC restaurants that deliver to you at "Uber" speed.

Transit/Navigation

- NYC Subway Transit - A simple NYC Transit map of all the subway lines. Very handy when you need a quick reference.
- Citymapper - You type in your destination and it provides you with all the transportation options (walking, biking, subway, bus, cab, etc) along with the travel time and associated costs. It's quite helpful if you're in an unfamiliar neighborhood or if it's late out and you want to find the quickest and or cheapest way home.
- Transit - Does all the same things as Citymapper, but has a feature where you can track where subways and buses are in real time.
- The PATH train, New Jersey Transit, Metro North, and LIRR are all great ways to get away for the weekend—perhaps on a weekend adventure or to visit family and friends!

General Tips & Tricks

- Keep your student ID with you. You never know when you can pull it out for a sweet discount—particularly at museums and other cultural institutions!
- Always check for a "first time user" discount code. This particularly applies to things like new apps that you download (ride sharing, food ordering, etc).
- Get the monthly unlimited MTA card. It gives you unlimited rides on the subway and buses that run throughout the five boroughs. That allows for unlimited adventures!
- If you're looking for slightly used and inexpensive furniture, use Craigslist. You'll find some gems on there that won't cost you an arm and a leg. Or, keep an eye out in your neighborhood because people are always moving and often times leave some great items on the sidewalk.
- If you ever find yourself bored, there's always something to do in NYC. Google events happening on that particular day, because there will almost always be a farmers market, flea market, comedy show, street festival, movie screening, or concert going on.
